FEDERAL ARBITRATION.

A Bill Which is Intended to Force It.

It Contemplates a Commission Composed of Three Men, Who Are Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Labor Commissioner Wright will have a conference tomorrow (Thursday) with Chairman McGann, of the house committee on labor, Representative Springer, author of the pending arbitration bill, and Representative Erdman, who wrote the favorable report on the bill. They will go over the question of arbitrating strikes, with a view to outlining a program for immediate action in congress Mr. Wright's experience in the presidential commission which recently investigated the Pullman strike is depended on to give practical form to the plan of national arbitration. It has heretofore been urged theoretically, but the report of the commission, based on inquiry and experience, recommends such federal arbitration as the surest way against labor agitations and strikes. It had been hoped that President Cleveland would in his message give specific approval to the plan of arbitration recommended by the strike commission, but he confined himself to an approval of the work of the commission.

Chairman McGann says of the prospects of passing an arbitration bill this session:

"I think such a bill will go through the senate and house without difficulty. There seems to be a general feeling, without reference to party, as to the opportuneness of such a measure Under ordinary circumstances it would be difficult to get through such an important bill at a short session, but the feeling is so ripe for action that I expect it to pass both houses. The Springer bill now reported is almost identical with the recommendations of the presidential strike commission. Mr. Wright will be asked for suggestions to perfect the bill, and then there will be a united effort to secure speedy action on the subject."

Briefly, the bill provides for the appointment of a permanent board of arbitration, consisting of three persons, one of whom may, in the discretion of the president, be the commission of labor for the time being. The term of their office is fixed at six years, and their salaries at $5,000 a year, and their appointments shall be made by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The arbitration is secured on the petition of one of the parties to a controversy, and when neither party asks for it there is no compulsory arbitration, but on the application of a state legislature the president may tender the offices of the national commission. The power of the commission to settle strikes is defined in the bill as follows.

"The said national board of arbitration shall have power, when in their discretion the public interests are at stake, to investigate the causes of all controversies and disputes between employes and their employers in the United States as they may occur and the conditions accompanying them, and the best means of their adjustment whether such controversies and disputes are submitted for arbitration or not, and they report thereon to the president of the United States who shall from time to time transmit such reports to congress."

"Said board shall have power to settle and adjust by conciliation all such disputes and controversies so far as it may be possible to do so."

"It is pointed out that the moral effect of a settlement proposed by the the national commission would be sufficient to make it effective and that this is better than drastic measures to compel acceptance."

AMERICAN COTTON.

Germany Becomes Interested in Our Southern Industry.

Sends a Commission Here to Investigate Cotton Growing With a View of Profit to Herself.

WASHINGTON, Dec 5.—It is not impossible that in the pursuit of its recently adopted policy towards America the German government may take some action hostile to our cotton interest. In a report to the state department coming from a round about way of Vienna, United States Consul General Max Judds states that the government has recently sent a commission to study the cultivation and manufacture of cotton in the United States. It is to inquire into: First, the methods of cultivation and implements used therefor; second, improvements in machinery for preparing cotton for markets; third, difference in the conditions and cost of production of cotton before and after the war; fourth, the quality of cotton before and after the war; fifth, the success of the cotton seed oil industry and the cost of the production of cotton and the advantages possessed by the United States over England and Germany in the manufacture of cotton. The prime object in view, according to the official report, is to determine whether the cotton produced in the United States meets the needs of the German manufacturer or whether it would be better to buy all or part of the raw cotton used in Germany elsewhere.

SKELETON FO

It Proved to be the Remains of Dr. Renbaugh.

VICTORIA, Mexico, Dec. 5.—Dr. Carl F. Renbaugh, a prominent German physician and botanist, arrived here a few months ago and started on a trip overland to Laredo, Texas, to make researches. He was accompanied by a Mexican servant. Yesterday a skeleton was found a few miles north of here in a ravine, which has been identified by the clothing to be that of Dr Renbaugh It is the opinion that the Mexican servant killed the doctor for the purpose of robbery.

RAILROAD BONDS.

The Government Must Pay $2,000,000 This Month,

And a Year Hence $2,000,000 More, for the Pacific Railroad Company —The Reilly Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Within the next month the government will be called upon to pay $2,000,000 of Pacific railroad bonds. It will be the first payment made by the government on these bonds, issued years ago to subsidize the building of the railroads across the continent They ran for long terms, and these are now about to mature. The $2,000,000 next month will be followed by another $2 000,000 next November. The railroads are primarily responsible for the payment of the bonds but as they were issued and guaranteed by the government, congress has anticipated, by its effort to fund or extend the debt, that the government would have to meet the maturing bonds. Chairman Reilly, of the house committee on Pacific railroad, does not believe that a solution of the Pacific roads debt can be reached at the present short session of congress. The committee wrestled with the problem throughout the last session and evolved a bill known as the Reilly bill, by which a settlement satisfactory to the government and the roads seemed possible The bill is now on the calendar but the interests are so vast that Mr. Reilly does not believe they will be passed upon during the hurry of a short session, although he would be glad to have his bill enacted. It is probable, therefore, that the Pacific road's problem will be inherited by the republican congress assembling a year hence It will then be an imperative question which can no longer be deferred, as two issues of bonds will have matured before the next congress opens. It will be necessary to arrange a speady plan of funding or extending the bonds or else provide for their payment.

A NOVEL RACE.

A Hack Horse Beat the Manhattan Railroad Train.

NEW YORK, Dec 5.—A livery hack horse beat the Manhattan Elevated railroad system last night in a novel race from the Battery to Fifty-ninth street. The match was for $50 a side, Lenwood Parmer, the artist, backing the horse, and Frank Elliott, the Canadian gentleman jockey, backing the elevated system His blind confidence lost him the wager. The terms of the bet was that Palmer could drive, without police interference, from the Battery to the Central Park Riding academy, Seventh avenue and Fifty-ninth street, and cover the route faster than Elliott could travel by train. The start was made from the battery stairs leading to the elevated station. Bertie Anderson was starter and time keeper, and drove with Palmer, watch in hand. The route was up Broadway and Seventh avenue to the end of the course, which was covered in just twenty-nine minutes. The two men were in a run-about wagon pulled by a horse hired from a livery stable. The best time was made on upper Seventh avenue, where there was no interference from passing vehicles Elliott arrived ten minutes later.

Anti-Toxine is Successfully Used at Kansas City.

The Physicians Are Enthusiastic Over Its Results in Two Cases—Further Experiments.

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Dec 5.—Local physicians are enthusiastic over the results of using anti-toxine, the new diphtheria remedy, a quantity of which has been received here and put upon its merits.

Two doses of the serum were given to an infant child having an advanced case of diphtheria, and in one day's time the child was pronounced out of danger.

Another case, that of a youth who had been ill nine days with the disease, has shown like results, the patient nearly being cured after two doses had been administered. Further experiments are being made.

GRAB EVERYTHING.

Indiana Senators Perfect Plans to Take All the Chairmanships.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—The republican state senators met in caucus here again yesterday and consummated their plans for taking the appointment of committees from the lieutenant governor and carrying on the work of the session regardless of the will of the minority. The committee appointed at the last meeting made its report, giving to the republicans all of the chairmanships and a majority of the members on each of the committees. It was decided to pass an apportionment law both for congressmen and members of the legislature; it is conceded that the democrats will attack it in the courts. A meeting of republican representatives will be held and similar policies will be agreed upon for the house.

ENDS A STRANGE CAREER

The Death of "Dovie" Comstock in a Kansas Jail

Brings to a Close the Eventful Life of a Beautiful and Notorious Woman.

NEW YORK, Dec 5.—The death of Edith Armstrong, better known as "Dovie" Comstock, in a Kansas jail ends a strange career of a beautiful and notorious woman. She was the daughter of D. C. Forney, founder of the Washington Chronicle, and a niece of John W. Forney.

All those who knew "Dovie" Comstock in her childhood speak of her dainty beauty. The name was given her because it fitted her. She was a laughing, wayward child.

It seemed natural that she should fall in love with Walter G Comstock, of Providence, who was rich and handsome and young. His father was very rich. He is a near relative of the Armours and was in the wholesale meat business. They lived in Providence, on Parkis avenue, in the finest house in the aristocratic Elwood section.

They plunged at once into the social whirl. It was not long before she gathered about her a coterie of young men, many of them not in the fashionable set. These young men drank quantities of wine.

Young Comstock was at first delighted with his wife. Then his eyes opened and he got a divorce. It is said that the co-respondent was Samuel Post, the man who was killed by Ella Nelson.

Some time after the divorce Mrs Comstock came to New York and lived in various hotels. In July, 1890, she moved to No. 344 Smith street, Brooklyn. It was there she met Theodore Larbig, who lost his life through her. He was forty-three years of age and a man who had seen life. Constant intercourse with many people, coupled with a checkered and varied experience in California, had given him a certain polish. But it was his great strength and self-confident manner which attracted Mrs. Comstock. He became a constant visitor to her flat when he was in town.

In May she moved to No 278 Sackett street and took as a boarder Darwin J. Meserole, son of General Meserole She had known Meserole several years and had been very intimate with him On June 27, 1891, Larbig called at the house and began quarreling with Mrs. Comstock. Meserole interfered and a fight ensued in which Meserole shot and killed Larbig. The trial attracted a good deal of attention The young man was acquitted. Wm J Gaynor was counsel for the defense. Ten months later 'Dovie" was married to John L. Watkins and a short time afterward she went west. Being a victim of the opium habit her downfall was rapid.

BILL COOK'S GANG.

They are Driven Out of the Indian Territory.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 5.—Capt W. J. McDonald with a detachment of state rangers, who captured a portion of the Cook gang, near Bellevue, Texas, last month, have left for northwest Texas, where another portion of the gang has been located. It is said that the entire gang, eighteen strong, and being led by Bill Cook, is now in Texas as a refuge from the United States marshal in the Indian territory.

There is one encouraging sign in some of the financial reports of the great corporations. It is that, while the gross earnings have decreased considerably in 1894, net earnings have diminished much less—that is to say, economy in management has made up somewhat for the loss of business. The Americans are naturally a wasteful people An occasional spell of hard times will be the best lesson they could have on the subject of economy. The wastefulness extends even to the household and the individual. An American family throws away what would keep a European family of the poorer class. We in this country must hereafter adapt ourselves permanently to the system of smaller returns and greater economy. We shall be as rich in the long run for it. The vast fortunes once realized in a few years in this new country are a thing of the past. The country is settled up, and its resources must be divided among many people.

Last summer during the strike the railroad companies sent in great haste to President Cleveland for United States troops to suppress the rioters. They were sent. Now the railroad companies present bills for transporting the troops to protect their own property. Uncle Sam ought to send in as an offset a bill for the services of his boys while they were defending the railroads.

It takes a long time to bury a great person. He must get tired of having his body carted around over his country so long before it reaches its final resting place. At any rate, living people get awfully tired of it.

IT IS A DEEP MYSTERY

That Enshrouds the Identity of Catherine Ging's Murderer.

The Police Have Obtained Several Clues, But as Yet Have Been Unable to Unravel the Crime.

MINNEAPOLIS Minn., Dec. 5.—The deep mystery that enshrouds the identity of Catharine Ging's murderous companion in her evening drive night before last is apparently as impenetrable as ever.

It is certain that this companion was beyond the preadventure of a doubt her murderer, but thus far there is scarcely the shadow of a clue to his identity. But one man has turned up who ever saw the murderer This is Mounted Officer Getchell, and his was but a fleeting glimpse of the face in the moonlight

The officer was making his rounds on Lake street near Portland avenue about 8 o'clock Monday evening. A carriage passed him in which the occupants were loudly quarreling. He glanced at them and saw that he was thin of face and had a dark heavy mustache. More he could not see. He now claims that he looked at the rig as it passed sharply and positively identified it as the Gooseman rig which Miss Ging hired and which came back to the stable empty and blood soaked.

The spot where the body was found is about two miles from the spot where Getchell claims to have seen the pair, but is on a direct road thither That is up to date the only actual clue to the identity of the stranger. Even by that it is by no means certain that the couple Getchell saw was the couple in question.

There is just one other clew from which something may yet be learned. This is the note Miss Ging received in the morning, and which, after reading she tore in small bits. Her waste basket is now in the hands of the police, who are making an effort to piece the various bits of paper found there together. So far this effort has not been entirely successful.

Apparently there are several notes One signed "R" seems to ask her to meet a friend from St. Louis This initial at once called to mind Frederick C Reed, of St Paul, manager of the Golden Rule store Reed, it is learned, was once engaged to Miss Ging, and gave her a diamond engagement ring, the one which was found in a small chamois bag beside her corsage. For some reason the engagement was broken more than a year ago Reed has a thin face and a heavy dark mustache. But he proves that he was at work in the store all the evening with his clerks.

The police last night sent word to Reed to come over and enter the sweat box. He declined unless a warrant was issued for him The police did not feel justified in issuing a warrant.

According to the testimony of all her friends, Miss Ging had entirely broken off her connections with Reed and held no communication with him for over a year. Yet she retained and cherished the ring. Thus far all search for the messenger who carried the notes have been futile. An A. D T. boy has been found who carried a number of notes from a man at the Nicoll house, but he did not carry the note Monday The man for whom he carried notes, and whose picture was found in Miss Ging's bourdoir, was Harvey Axford, a clothing manufacturer's agent, with whom and whose wife Miss Ging was friendly. He had no trouble in convincing the police that he had nothing to do with the murder.

Carl J. Warneke, another former intimate of Miss Ging's, was also subjected to sweat box process, but without result. He satisfactorily explained his former relations with the girl. He is now married.

The only other suspect is Harry Hayward, the landlord, friend and creditor of the dead woman. Hayward's admissions with reference to his financial relations with the woman constitute the serious part of the case against him. His alibi is perfect and relieves him entirely from connection with the crime. It is established that he was at the theater at the time the murder was committed. Yet he knew more of her business affairs than any known person He lent her large sums, with security that would not be deemed gilt edge. This he says he did out of friendship and with confidence in her honesty. His last loan was $7,000 on Saturday, and it is pretty certain that she had this amount on her person at the time of her murder and that the murderer took it from her. Hayward's security for this was Miss Ging's two insurance policies---one an accident policy for $5,000 in the Travelers and the other a regular life policy for the same amount in the New York Life. These were assigned to him.

The police have enough confidence in the theory that Hayward knows more of the crime than he will tell and that possibly he instigated it to hold him under close surveillance. Mayor Eustis, who has taken charge of the case, believes this latter theory is the true one. In this connection an alleged hold-up that occurred last April is being recalled. Hayward was out driving with Miss Ging and Miss Vetter, her friend. They were stopped by two men and forced to give up what they had. It is now claimed that Miss Ging had a large sum of money in ready cash at the time and was supposed to have it on her person, but that as a matter of fact she did not have it with her. It is conjectured that the men knew this fact and expected to get the money. It is even hinted that Hayward gave them the information. But aside from the insurance policies there is not a scintilla of evidence that Hayward desired the death of Miss Ging or would profit by it. He was her creditor to a large amount, was very fond of her, and stood better in her confidence than any one The theory that he instigated the crime is hard to believe. Supposing it to be true How could he have induced Miss Ging to go driving with him in so mysterious a way thrice with a hired thug? And how he could have induced her to take with her on the fatal drive so large a sum as $7 000 It is evident that there was a peculiar relation not entirely a pecuniary one between Miss Ging and her mysterious companion And so the investigations of the mystery come around to the point from which they started at and leave the mystery as deep as ever.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Business Drags Along in An Uninteresting Manner.

Senator Berry Introduces a Bill to Create the Territory of Indianola —Other Bills.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—There was not a quorum present when the senate met today but as there was no demand for a quorum business proceeded with a limited number. Bills were introduced by Mr. Berry, (dem) of Arkansas, to form the territory of Indianola out of portions of the Indian territory; by Mr. Dolph, (rep) of Oregon, to exempt from duty foreign exhibits at the Portland, Ogn., exposition; by Mr Hulton, (dem) of Virginia, to remit the fines and penalties on the naval ships Yorktown, Baltimore, Newark and Philadelphia; by Mr. Dolph, to forfeit the unearned public lands granted to railroads; by Mr. McPherson, (dem) of New Jersey, by request for an investigation of the merits of the plan for a unit of labor.

The attendance on the floor was again small when the house met at noon today and the indications pointed to another dull day. Immediately after the reading of the journal Mr. English, (dem., of New Jersey), asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill. Mr. Sayers, (dem., of Texas) objected, whereupon Mr. English promptly objected to a resolution offered by Mr. Blair (rep., of North Dakota), calling on the president to furnish the house, is not incompatible with the public interest, with all correspondence, telegraphic or otherwise, between this country and China, relating to the war between China and Japan. The resolution went to the committee on foreign affairs. Mr. English then demanded the regular order.

Senator Berry, of Arkansas, immediately after the senate convened today, introduced a bill to create a territory of Indianola, out of the present Indian territory. It provides for a complete reorganization of the Indian country.

The committee on rules this morning decided to give today after the second morning hour, and each day thereafter, to the consideration of the railroad pooling bill, the order, however, not to interfere with appropriation bills.

DASTARDLY!

Someone Trying to Poison Mrs. Fricke.

The Lady Feeds the Drug to the Chickens.

As a Result Many of Them Die and Nearly All Are Taken Sick---Chemist Gross Will Make Analysis.

A dastardly attempt is being made to poison Mrs. August Fricke, a well-to-do widow living at No. 175 Lafayette street

The story is sensational to the extreme and shows clearly that some enemy of the lady is employing a systematic method to put her out of the way.

Some months ago Mrs. Fricke was awakened one night by a knock on the door. She got up and cautiously peeped out. She saw no one but the next morning, when she went out on the porch, was surprised to see a tempting basket of fine dried fruit. There were prunes, raisins, dried apples and other such fruits Mrs. Fricke was greatly surprised at the kind gift, but being of a suspicious turn of mind, set the basket aside and told one of her neighbors. This lady told her not to touch the stuff, that it might be poisoned. She also advised Mrs. Fricke to try the fruit on the chickens. This she did and was horrified to find that everyone of her twenty or thirty fowls took sick. Many of them died.

Every now and then since that occurrence Mrs. Fricke has found pack ages of just such fruit in or about her yard. Sometimes there would be prunes and raisins; sometimes apples and peaches. On Monday some more fruit was left in the yard and yesterday Mrs. Fricke's chickens began to take sick and two fine fowls are now dead and lying in her back yard.

The lady is very naturally frightened and has no idea who is attempting the dastardly work. She has been a widow for twelve years and lives entirely alone.

The police are investigating and Chemist Gross will analyze the stomachs of the dead fowls.

ON HIS HEAD.

Dr. M. W. Tinkham Hurt in a Runaway Accident.

Badly Shaken Up But Able to Be Out Today---Accident on the Street Car Line.

Last night, about 8.30 o'clock, at Wayne Heights, Dr. M W. Tinkham, the well known physician, met with a narrow escape from death by a runaway accident. The doctor had been calling on a patient and when about to drive away his horse took fright at an engine on the Nickel Plate road and began plunging and kicking. The animal ran to the sidewalk and striking the curb, upset the buggy and threw the doctor out on his head. He was rendered unconscious and did not recover for some moments. When he did regain his senses he was badly bruised about the head and shoulders. The horse ran on down the street and and becoming tangled in some trees, broke the shafts, but was stopped. The doctor was able to be out today.

A COLLISION.

This morning about 11 o'clock a Main street electric car ran into a farm wagon, in which were seated John Wobold and C. T Zeis, at the corner of Lafayette and Wayne streets. The wagon was smashed to splinters, but fortunately neither of the men was hurt. The men drove in front of the car.

THE WAR BEGINS.

Liquor Dealers Association Forcing Sunday Closing.

They Say They Are In Dead Earnest This Time---Send Out a Committee to Notify Citizens.

The Allen County Liquors Dealers' association has begun the war on Sunday closing in earnest For some time past they have threatened to close all kinds of business on Sunday but never made any strong effort to carry out their threats Yesterday, at their meeting, however, they determined to act and this morning a committee from their association started out over the city to notify all business men who keep their stores open on Sunday that they must close This includes everybody except dairymen and druggists who sell prescriptions upon instructions from a physician The new order of things is to begin on next Sunday, and upon that day it is predicted that it will be so quiet that one can hear a pin drop anywhere on Calhoun street. Smokers and others will act accordingly on Saturday night. It is said that not even hotel cigar stands will be allowed to keep open.

MAYOR OAKLEY SEES.

Mayor Oakley was asked about the matter this noon, and said: "The saloon men are making an effort to hinder the stringent measures which this administration has taken with regard to Sunday closing and this last move of theirs is to make our orders in this direction as odious as possible. They will not succeed in this new move. I don't think the people will stand it. The saloons, however, must obey the law. This much I repeat now."

A TOUGH CITIZEN.

C. W. Jacobs Under Arrest for Mock Marriage.

He Turns Out to Be a Swindler Who Operated in Omaha and Kansas City.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec 5.—C. W. Jacobs, under arrest here for his participation in a mock marriage, is not Pietzel, the St Louis insurance swindler. Jacobs was unable to get a divorce from his legal wife in Kansas City and wanted to marry Mrs. Buck, of Chicago. He disappeared, leading his wife to believe that he had been killed. Mrs. Buck refused to live with him until he had secured a divorce, so he got a copy of the Oklahoma territory court papers, and forged a judgment of divorce. Fearing discovery if he had a minister marry him, he conceived the plan of a mock ceremony. The police have released Jacobs, Mrs. Buck and Harvey, the bogus preacher.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Dr. Chas. W. Jacobs, who was arrested in Milwaukee while attempting to marry Mrs. Helen Buck, of Chicago, by an alleged mock ceremony, has, according to the police of this city, a glittering record. Jacobs secured his diploma from a Cincinnati medical college and practiced medicine in Omaha and Kansas City. While in the latter city several years ago he married the daughter of Millionaire David Skelton, and, it is claimed, made an unsuccessful attempt last summer to secure a divorce there. Jacobs' favorite plan for obtaining money was, it is said, the offering of $30 worth of work for a deposit of $5, but the transaction invariably ended, the police say, when he received the deposit. He was also known as a dealer in diamonds, which business was carried on without the aid of diamonds. Jacobs is also said to have received large contributions from western farmers through diverse and questionable schemes. The theory that he is the missing Pietzel, confederate of the insurance swindler, H. H. Holmes, is given no credence here.

It is given out that the Richmond Independent will be consolidated with the Richmond Telegram and that the Telegram will be issued as a morning paper

The estimates of appropriation submitted to congress include $235,000 for the Michigan City harbor, for the support of the Indian school at Wabash, $10,000, for the Marion Soldiers' Home, $696,271; and for the Indian school at Rensselaer, Ind., $8,330.

In the senate yesterday Senator Turpie, of Indiana, offered a resolution reciting that the time had now come for the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people. Mr. Turpie announced that on Friday next he would submit some remarks on the resolution, and in the meantime the resolution went over.

State Geologist Blatchley, it is understood, will ask the legislature for an increased appropriation for his department. He believes that a geodetic survey should be made of every county in the state. All facts concerning Indiana's natural resources should be collected as carefully and spread as widely as possible, he thinks

Japan wants 400,000,000 yen and the cession of the territory now occupied by her troops as the price of peace. This demand seems a little heavy, a yen being equivalent to our dollar German y exacted but $250,000,000 from France, although depriving her of Alsace and Lorraine. England will object to Japan's demands, no doubt, and interesting complications will ensue if Japan insists upon a cession of territory.

The scramble for the office of oil inspector of Indiana, and Geologist Blatchley's delay in selecting the man have led to the discovery that the office is one the richest in the state. The inspector makes from $4,000 to $9,000 in fees, although Blatchley and Yancey say only $3 000 or $4,000 a year The Standard Oil company pays 90 per cent of the fees The office was supposed, by those who did not know when they voted to create it, to be worth $1, 00 a year. Now it is supposed to yield not only a big revenue to the man who holds it, but to the party in power.

The Liquor Dealers association met yesterday and took counsel in regard to influencing Mayor Oakley to enforce all the Sunday laws. The object of this is to try to make the enforcement of the laws so obnoxious that the closing of the saloons on Sunday will be abandoned. The enforcement of the law in regard to Sunday saloon closing has met with such popular approval by our people that we do not believe they will ever be allowed to open again. The liquor dealers spent thousands of dollars to defeat the Sunday law in Pittsburg and other cities on this same plan but failed and were weaker at the end of the fight than when they commenced. What a blessing it would be if all secular and commercial business was stopped on the Sabbath day.

It now appears that the Armenians were treated even worse than was at first reported. The Turks not only murdered the old men, women and children by the hundreds, but took possession of the village schools and ravished the girls found there. An eye witness says that Ibo Bey, a notorious Kurd brigand of the village of Djibran, and a colonel in the regular army, went with a detachment of Turkish troops to the Armenian villages of Bahlou, Hatzegent and Komk and at each place they committed every crime it was possible to commit After driving out the men they collected the female children of Bahlou together, about two hundred in all, and after ravishing them they killed them all with guns and swords. After this massacre the Turkish soldiers regaled themselves with wine and whatever else they could find in the village. If it is true that Secretary Gresham refused to do anything when the Armenians of this country appealed to him, and passed it by as a small matter, he should receive the severest condemnation and be asked to step down and out from the high position he holds. The American government should come to the aid of suffering humanity wherever it is found.

Real and Ideal Tibet.

It will be well to take Professor Heinrich Hensoldt Ph. D 's fairy tales about Tibet with a very large chunk of reservation till we find how far the learned professor is indulging his well known propensity to hoodwink people and then laugh at them. For the past year papers of thrilling interest have been appearing in The Arena from his hand about the magicians of the orient These perform marvels compared to which the New Testament miracles seem everyday affairs, according to the Hensoldt testimony. They can make even rocks and trees disappear at will, and they can read your thoughts as soon as they are formed in your mind. To be sure, one cannot help wondering, if such glorious beings exist in Tibet and India, why the people of those countries remain among the poorest and most degraded on the earth, but perhaps one is unreasonable to expect civilized people and mahatmas both to live in one country at the same time.

In his travels in Tibet, Dr. Hensoldt alleges himself to have visited the Dalai Lama, who is the supposed reincarnation of Buddha. He is a child of 12 years, who concentrates in himself all the wisdom of the ages, according to Hensoldt. His countenance is glorious to look upon, albeit singularly melancholy, because Dal is always brooding over the sins of the world, as well he might be Hensoldt further represents the lamas or priests at the monasteries of Tibet as being learned, benevolent gentlemen who work for their living, and work hard.

A year or two ago an Englishman, after unutterable hardship, penetrated into Tibet. He did not look at things through the cultivated esoteric imagination, but just through plain, blunt British eyes. He finds the roving nomads of Tibet to be the most dishonest, treacherous and shiftless of human beings They will rob you as quick as look at you and have not the most distant conception that a promise is anything to be kept.

The priests or lamas, whom Hensoldt found to be so industrious and frugal, the British traveler finds to be rich and arrogant All the wealth there is in the country they have got hold of, and they practice on the ignorance and superstition of the wretched inhabitants to forward their own very material interests constantly Finally the Dalai Lama is 18 years old, the Englishman says, and he does not consider him anything extraordinary at all.

The findings of President Cleveland's committee to investigate the Pullman strike are substantially that either the government must intervene to protect the employees of railway corporations or else it must own the railroads itself In case of the Pullman strike the committee, of whom Carroll D Wright, labor commissioner, is a prominent member finds that the rent charged Pullman employees was 20 to 25 per cent more than the same accommodations could be had for in Chicago A high rent was charged even for occupying the church the Pullman company built, so high a rent that the church was seldom used. The committee finds, further, that the company did not keep the works running in hard times for the sake of the workmen, but only for its own sake. Pullman was found to be to blame for refusing to arbitrate the differences between himself and his men. The committee discovered there was something to arbitrate Finally the Railway Managers' association is declared to be illegal.

The law of New York requires that after election each candidate shall file with the secretary of state a full and true statement of the money he paid out for campaign expenses. John W. Goff who sailed triumphantly into the lucrative office of recorder on the fame he made in the Lexow committee, spent 75 cents.

PYKE-HAAS.

A Quiet Wedding at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Other Society Events of Importance and Personal Paragraphs of Interest—Short Notes.

Very pretty and impressive in its quiet simplicity was the wedding of Miss Lilla M. Pyke and Mr Charles S. Haas, of Wabash, which occurred this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Trinity Episcopal church. The near relatives and just a few intimate friends were the guests assembled to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. W. Seabrease, rector of the church. Mrs. T E Ellison presided at the organ and during the ceremony played, softly, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." The bride was attired in a cloth traveling gown of green and brown mixture After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs Haas left for Cincinnati and from there will go to New Orleans and Florida to spend several weeks before returning to Wabash, where they will reside. Miss Pyke was one of Fort Wayne's most interesting society young ladies and a talented musician. She was an active member of the Morning Musical and will be much missed in both musical and social circles.

Mr. Haas is one of the most successful newspaper men of the state, combining with his rare business qualifications abilities as a writer that have made him a brilliant journalist and given him a position as an editor whose name and fame are not confined to state boundaries. At one time the city editor of The Sentinel, he left this city for his home at Wabash, where he took charge, as editor and proprietor, of the Plaindealer, a daily and weekly news paper that he has brought up to a high standard of excellence and made it a paying and prosperous business investment As a business man he is highly esteemed. Socially he has endeared himself to a large circle of friends and become a favorite with everyone with with whom he is thrown in contact The newspaper guild regard "Charley" Haas as "one of the cleverest of fellows," a young man who is an honor to the journalistic profession and one who has a brilliant future.

BRUTES AT WORK.

Students Haze Claude G. Campbell, a Cripple.

The Lad's Head Shaved and Painted Red—Stripped of His Clothing and Exposed to the Weather.

San Francisco, Dec. 5 —Disloyalty to the University of California, which he has until recently been an under graduate, was the reason given for hazing of Claude G. Campbell, son of a Methodist minister at Los Angeles, by his fellow students. Cambell's offense consisted in wearing the Stanford colors and jeering at the University of California because of its defeat by Stanford in the foot ball match on Thanksgiving day He is also accused of having given inside information of the condition and tactics of his university team to the opposing players. Campbell was caught after midnight on his way to his quarters, seized and blindfolded. With a dull razor the students shaved one side of his head and cut off his eyebrows and eyelashes. His head was daubed with red ink, Stanford's colors having been worked into his surviving locks with mucilage. On one cheek was a red "S"—for Stanford. On the other "T"—for traitor. He was stripped and his body covered with the same letters. Campbell is a slender cripple and explains that he was a former Stanford student, intending to return to that university in January. The faculty will consider the case on its merits.

RIGHT ROYAL TRIO.

HENRY OF NAVARRE, HIS SIRE AND DAM.

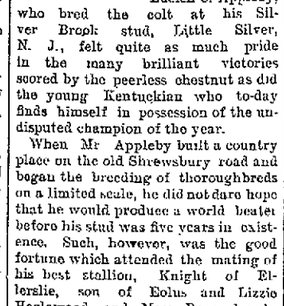

The Champion of 1894 Comes by His Beauty and Speed Honestly—Blood Lines in the Pedigree of the Great Colt.

THE DISTINCTION received by the 3-year-old colt Henry of Navarre on the running turf during the season of 1894 brought credit and profit to others than his owner, Byron McClelland of Lexington. Lucien O. Appleby, who bred the colt at his Silver Brook stud, Little Silver, N. J., felt quite as much pride in the many brilliant victories scored by the peerless chestnut as did the young Kentuckian who to-day finds himself in possession of the undisputed champion of the year.

When Mr Appleby built a country place on the old Shrewsbury road and began the breeding of thoroughbreds on a limited scale, he did not dare hope that he would produce a world beater before his stud was five years in existence. Such, however, was the good fortune which attended the mating of his best stallion, Knight of Ellerslie, son of Eolus and Lizzie Hazlewood, and Moss Rose, daughter of imported The Ilk-Used and Scarlet, by Kentucky, Knight of Ellerslie was foaled in 1881, and was bred at the Ellerslie stud of Col. Hancock in Virginia. As a 3-year-old he won the Army and Navy, Vernal, and Preakness stakes, and was second to Panique in the Belmont stakes Going amiss when his career was brightest, Knight of Ellerslie was placed in the stud in Kentucky. He received but little patronage in the blue grass region, however, and Mr. Appleby secured him for Silver Brook and bred him to a few of the brood mares of splendid blood lines which formed the nucleus of his stud. The blood of some of the greatest performers of the turf, among them Eole, Eon, St. Saviour, War Cry and Melbourne, Jr., flowed in the veins of Knight of Ellerslie, and this mingling with the blood of Scarlet, of Carnation, of Kentucky, through the dam, Moss Rose, it was not surprising that the product of the union should give early promise of being a race horse. From the very first the colt thus unnamed and only distinguished from his fellows by his size and conformation, was regarded as the most promising of the collection.

It was the first crop of foals at Silver Brook, and the members of the household each had a favorite. All were fond of the son of Knight of Ellerslie and Moss Rose, and there was great crying and drying of eyes the morning the colts and fillies were led away to the paddocks at Monmouth park, where, in sight of the home of their birth, they were put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder. The size and beauty of the chestnut colt now known as Henry of Navarre brought many bidders into the ring, among them Byron McClelland of Kentucky. McClelland said a few weeks ago that something told him to buy the colt, and while he secured him for $3,000, he was prepared to go on and pay more than twice this sum had the competition been brisk enough to carry him along. David C. Johnson wanted the colt, too, but Mr. Johnson is one of those men peculiar to the race track who either has money to burn or hasn't a penny. It happened that when the colt was sold he was in the Mr. Jingle stage of his existence, and he looked on and was no doubt glad that his friend McClelland had bagged the prize. McClelland called the colt Henry of Navarre at the request of a school teacher in Lexington. The oriflamme of the Knight has always been in the most prominent places ever since the regal chestnut sported silk, and turfmen will not cease sounding his praises for years to come, says the New York Sun.

In the same stable is a sister of Henry of Navarre, purchased a few months ago for $2,000, and when the brother to both is led into the sale ring next season the man who secures him must have more money and a stouter heart than McClellan if he secures him.

When Henry of Navarre's portrait appeared last spring the beauty of the colt was greatly admired. He was by far the handsomest horse in training at that time. A number of communications have been received asking what manner of stock Henry of Navarre sprang from. Moss Rose is shown just as she was found in the paddocks enjoying the last days of the sunny autumn. She had been tumbling and tossing about in the grass and leaves, and her coat is not in showy condition. She is in good health, and, as she is a young mare, being foaled in 1893, she will probably present Silver Brook stud with other fleet race horses.

Knight of Ellerslie is a commanding figure, and a glance at his splendid proportions shows whence Henry of Navarre inherited many of his strongest qualities. Years in the stud have thickened and rounded a sturdy frame, and there are few handsomer stallions in the stud than this youngest of the great sires of the country. Mr. Appleby should send him to the National Horse Show association's exhibition this month, for he would undoubtedly be one of the features of the great collection housed annually for a week in Madison Square garden.

For many years breeders of thoroughbreds and trotters were of the opinion that the climate of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania was too rigorous to secure the best results in the breeding line, but that has long since been exploded, and the product of these states can hold their own with the thoroughbreds or trotters from Kentucky, California or Tennessee.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

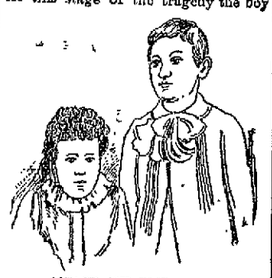

Why the Late Professional League Failed of Success.

The failure of professional football was a great disappointment to the followers of the dribbling code, a large number of whom thought that the game would jump immediately into popularity. But it was hardly to be expected, in the face of counter attractions, that the public would flock to see games in sufficient numbers to place the project upon a paying basis. Had the season been delayed until after Thanksgiving day, when the interest in the Rugby game had subsided, there might have been a better prospect of success. In England, where the crowd at all "cup" games always number two figures in thousands, the conditions are different, the weather being warmer and the counter attraction of Rugby football being overcome. Just now the excitement at all matches in England is at fever heat, and, like baseball in this country, the local pride is not interfered with by the fact that most of the players have no more right to play for the town they represent than they would have to take part in an international game and represent America. It does not matter whether a team in Lancashire, composed of two thirds Scotchmen, plays a team in Warwickshire, composed of all Scotchmen. The interest is just as great and the patriotism as keen as though all the men were born at the place they represent.

OHIO'S AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Victims of the Most Fiendish Crime Recorded for Years.

The most appalling crime that has for years been recorded in Ohio was enacted near Hjoksonville the other day. Ashley and Elsie Good, aged 14 and 15 respectively, left their home Sunday afternoon for a hunt in the woods not far distant. That night they did not return home. The next morning a search party was sent out and during the day found their mangled bodies under a brush heap, near the farm house of a family by the name of Hart. They had been murdered in cold blood, and then the perpetrators sought to wipe out evidence of the awful deed by setting the brush upon a fire. But it did not burn and their bodies were found as told. It seems that assault on the little girl prompted the crime. The children were captured and bound. At this stage of the tragedy the boy was apparently dealt a cruel blow on the cheek that knocked out four of his teeth. It was done with the toy gun he took with him when he and his little sister started out to play. From the appearance of the wound when the body was found he must have lived an hour or so after he received it. The place they were first taken to is not known. There is evidence that the children were together when the girl was assaulted. It then became evident to the fiend that he must do away with one or both. To make the boy promise not to tell he began torturing the lad, horribly mutilating him and the moster ripped him open on one side of the abdomen and then on the other. It only remained to cut his throat, and it was done. The body was then carried out to the brush pile, where it was placed to be burned up. The little girl was brought to the brush heap. This could be seen by her tracks in the mud. The footprints showed she was dragged along unwillingly, as her marks were the deepest. The places where she laid on the ground in two or three different positions could be plainly seen. She was held down and her throat cut after she had been mutilated and tortured worse even then her brother. Such are some of the stories that come through some of the searching party. That some of the near neighbors "never saw the smoke" of the burning brush heap when it was in plain sight is regarded as suspicious and resulted in arrests. Charles Hart, who narrowly escaped lynching, evidently saw it, but knew enough about what was going on to keep away.

"Jack the Strangler" is again at work in Denver. A Japanese girl of ill repute was his third victim.

What Liberty Cap Signifies

The goddess of Liberty originally was represented as holding in her hand a cap In France the Jacobins wore a red cap In England the blue cap with a white border is the symbol of liberty, and Britannia is sometimes represented as holding a cap on the end of a spear This custom originated with the Romans When a Roman slave was freed he was given a small red cloth cap, which he wore as a sign of his freedom He was then called libertinus which means a freedman, and his name was registered on the city records When Saturninus took possession of the capitol he hoisted a cap on top of a spear and proclaimed that all slaves who joined his forces and marched under his standard should be free Other conquerors adopted the same sign, and when Cæsar was assassinated the conspirators marched in procession with a cap elevated on a spear, as a token of their liberty

Officer Hardendorf Arrests a Gang of Small Boys.

Mystery of the Bank Block and Pixley-Long Building Robberies Cleared Up—They Were Newsboys.

Officer Dora Hardendorf did a clever piece of detective work this week and has created consternation among a crowd of urchins which will last them for many a day

For some months past people in the Bank block and Pixley Long building have been missing stamps and small change and the police were suspicious of some newsboys Officer Hardendorf has been shadowing the lads and this morning began making arrests by the wholesale.

Monday morning when Attorney Kleekamp went to his office in the Bank block he was surprised to see his safe standing open and all the drawers in his desk looking as though they had been rifled He did not miss anything but some stamps He at once notified the police.

This morning, Officer Hardendorf working on a clue obtained at the fruit store of Phillip Dondero, arrested Willie Webber, son of the West Main street saloonkeeper, and Walter Leiger, both newsboys He also got hold of Arthur Nickerson, and took him to the station. Nickerson was badly scared and cried and took on at a great rate He finally gave the whole thing away and his statement was quite startling showing that the boys form a regular gang of young thieves and crooks Those implicated beside the three boys arrested this morning are John Van Allen, Ed Bailey, of Broadway, and Harry Stephens, of Chicago street

Nickleson told the officers that the boys had a bunch of fifty or seventy-five keys which would fit almost every door in the two buildings mentioned Officer Hardendorf then took the boy Nickleson to a barn in the rear of the Daily News office and found a bunch of five or six keys, which were found to open every door in the Bank block The officers let the Nickleson and Van Allen boys go as they appeared not to be mixed up in the matter so badly as the other boys They will be held as witnesses, however.

The boys, it appears, have stolen mostly postage stamps Sunday they made a wholesale robbery of the Bank building and, among other valuables, got $1 worth of stamps from J E Graham. The boys all say they traded their stamps to Dondero for fruit and candy The Daily News office has also been missing stamps.

MANY SUITS

Grow Out of a Struggle for Possession of a Barber Shop.

Sensational Scenes Enacted at the Arcade Building Over Legal Suits.

Some time ago Oscar Wobrock owned the Arcade barber shop and when he retired from the business, assigned a five year lease by permission of the owner of the building, Henry M. Williams, to Uriah Kopenhaven, who has since conducted the shop Kopenhaven has been behind in his rent and owed some $60.

On the 15th of November he was served with a ten days' notice to vacate the premises and failing to comply on November 28, a suit for possession of premises was brought against him This suit was yesterday decided by Justice Tancey in favor of the plaintiff and the constable was given an order to put the proprietor of the Arcade in possession of the room

It seems that a few days ago Kopenhaven sold his furniture and effects used in the barber business, to two young men in his employ, Edward Swaidner and Henry Hohmann, who were conducting the business when the constable came in The writ for possession was read to them and the constable proceeded to execute the order of the court. He had carried about half the stuff out and as he took a chair out to the sidewalk the door was locked He demanded admittance, but was refused U H Stewart and James Robinson, attorneys for the owner of the Arcade, advised Roebke to force an entrance, on the ground that he was in possession of the place as soon as he had read the writ. This Roebke did with an axe The customers in the chairs, however, did not budge and the barbers kept at their work.

While this was going on Charles Lindsay, a constable from Justice France's court, put in an appearance with a warrant for the arrest of Constable Roebke, the charge being malicious trespass. Roebke went away a prisoner and the barbers resumed business. Things remained peaceful until 8 o'clock, and a new door was put up. At this hour Constable Roebke again put in an appearance and, with a plank for a battering ram, broke in the door. The goods were deposited in the alley and the constables again put in possession.

Still another justice court was called into action and Justice Bohen issued warrants for Edward Swaidner and Henry Hohman, the present owners of the furniture, and Alfred Boray, a colored man, who, it is alleged, kicked Constable Roebke. Henry Homan was the only one arrested last night, and Fred Schmuckle went on his bond for $100 for his appearance this morning

The barbers say that they purchased the furniture from Kopenhaven with the understanding that they were to have a five years lease and did not intend to accept any other terms

Mr. Williams in speaking of the affair to THE SENTINEL reporter said: "Never, under any condition nor at any time, was the room offered for a five year term. On the contrary always, and at all times, the very reverse was plainly stated, they could have the room for a short time, not for a long one, and this offer still remains open. Possession of furniture in a room does not carry with it possession of a room. The original lease is out, cancelled by the lessee and also by decree of the court."

The case against Swaidner and Homann came up this morning in Justice Bohen's court and was adjourned until 10 o'clock Friday morning

The malicious trespass case against Roebke and Snoozengarber was called in Justice France's court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In the superior court this morning B F Harper and Robert Driebelbiss as attorneys for Henry Homann and Edward Swaidner, began suit in the superior court against Frederick W. Roebke and Henry Hesemoier to recover damages in the sum of $1,500, alleging that their business and reputations had been injured to that amount.

Warning to Expectant MOTHERS.

Many internal remedies are being skillfully and glibly advertised, professing to Shorten Labor, Lessen Pains of Child-birth, etc and with wonderful inconsistency to regulate menstruation Common sense should teach any woman that a preparation adapted for MENSTRUAL DISORDERS will not prepare the system for Child birth, on the contrary internal remedies at this time may imperil her life We earnestly say BEWARE of all such; they cannot, at this critical period do any possible good, and their use may prove fatal. It is only by persistent EXTERNAL treatment while enceinte, thus relaxing and softening all the parts that the hour of Child birth is robbed of its terror, and no remedy on earth does this but "MOTHER'S FRIEND." FEDERAL ARBITRATION.

A Bill Which Is Intended to Force It.

It Contemplates a Commission Composed of Three Men, Who Are Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Labor Commissioner Wright will have a conference tomorrow (Thursday) with Chairman McGann of the house committee on labor, Representative Springer, author of the pending arbitration bill, and Representative Kelman, who wrote the favorable report on the bill. They will go over the question of arbitrating strikes, with a view to outlining a program for immediate action in congress. Mr. Wright's experience in the presidential commission which recently investigated the Pullman strike is depended on to give practical form to the plan of national arbitration. It has heretofore been urged theoretically, but the report of the commission, based on inquiry and experience, recommends such federal arbitration as the surest way against labor agitations and strikes. It had been hoped that President Cleveland would in his message give specific approval to the plan of arbitration recommended by the strike commission, but he confined himself to an approval of the work of the commission.

Chairman McGann says of the prospects of passing an arbitration bill this session:

"I think such a bill will go through the senate and house without difficulty. There seems to be a general feeling, without reference to party, as to the opportuneness of such a measure. Under ordinary circumstances it would be difficult to get through such an important bill at a short session, but the feeling is so ripe for action that I expect it to pass both houses. The Springer bill now reported is almost identical with the recommendations of the presidential strike commission. Mr. Wright will be asked for suggestions to perfect the bill, and then there will be a united effort to secure speedy action on the subject."

Briefly, the bill provides for the appointment of a permanent board of arbitration, consisting of three persons, one of whom may, in the discretion of the president, be the commission of labor for the time being. The term of their office is fixed at six years, and their salaries at $5,000 a year, and their appointments shall be made by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The arbitration is secured on the petition of one of the parties to a controversy, and when neither party asks for it there is no compulsory arbitration, but on the application of a state legislature the president may tender the offices of the national commission. The power of the commission to settle strikes is defined in the bill as follows:

"The said national board of arbitration shall have power, when in their discretion the public interests are at stake, to investigate the causes of all controversies and disputes between employes and their employers in the United States as they may occur and the conditions accompanying them, and the best means of their adjustment whether such controversies and disputes are submitted for arbitration or not, and they report thereon to the president of the United States who shall from time to time transmit such reports to congress."

"Said board shall have power to settle and adjust by conciliation all such disputes and controversies so far as it may be possible to do so."

"It is pointed out that the moral effect to a settlement proposed by the the national commission would be sufficient to make it effective and that this is better than drastic measures to compel acceptance."

AMERICAN COTTON.

Germany Becomes Interested in Our Southern Industry.

Sends a Commission Here to Investigate Cotton Growing With a View of Profit to Herself.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—It is not impossible that in the pursuit of its recently adopted policy towards America the German government may take some action hostile to our cotton interest. In a report to the state department coming from a round about way of Vienna, United States Consul General Max Judds states that the government has recently sent a commission to study the cultivation and manufacture of cotton in the United States. It is to inquire into: First, the methods of cultivation and implements used therefor; second, improvements in machinery for preparing cotton for markets; third, difference in the conditions and cost of production of cotton before and after the war; fourth, the quality of cotton before and after the war; fifth, the success of the cotton seed oil industry and the cost of the production of cotton and the advantages possessed by the United States over England and Germany in the manufacture of cotton. The prime object in view, according to the official report is to determine whether the cotton produced in the United States meets the needs of the German manufacturer or whether it would be better to buy all or part of the raw cotton used in Germany elsewhere.

SKELETON FO

It Proved to be the Remains of Dr. Renbaugh.

VICTORIA, Mex'co, Dec. 5.—Dr. Carl F. Renbaugh a prominent German physician and botanist, arrived here a few months ago and started on a trip overland to Laredo, Texas, to make researches. He was accompanied by a Mexican servant. Yesterday a skeleton was found a few miles north of here in a ravine, which has been identified by the clothing to be that of Dr. Renbaugh. It is the opinion that the Mexican servant killed the doctor for the purpose of robbery.

RAILROAD BONDS.

The Government Must Pay $62,000,000 This Month.

And a Year Means $2,000,000 More, for the Pacific Railroad Company—The Reilly Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Within the next month the government will be called upon to pay $2,000,000 of Pacific railroad bonds. It will be the first payment made by the government on these bonds, issued years ago to subsidize the building of the railroads across the continent. They run for long terms, and these are now about to mature. The $2,000,000 next month will be followed by another $2,000,000 next November. The railroads are primarily responsible for the payment of the bonds but as they were issued and guaranteed by the government, congress has anticipated, by its effort to fund or extend the debt, that the government would have to meet the maturing bonds. Chairman Reilly, of the house committee on Pacific railroad, does not believe that a solution of the Pacific roads debt can be reached at the present short session of congress. The committee wrestled with the problem throughout the last session and evolved a bill known as the Reilly bill, by which a settlement satisfactory to the government and the roads seemed possible. The bill is now on the calendar but the interests are so vast that Mr. Reilly does not believe they will be passed upon during the hurry of a short session, although he would be glad to have his bill enacted. It is probable, therefore, that the Pacific road's problem will be inherited by the republican congress assembling a year hence. It will then be an imperative question which can no longer be deferred, as two issues of bonds will have matured before the next congress opens. It will be necessary to arrange a speedy plan of funding or extending the bonds or else provide for their payment.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.

Commander Ballington Booth Not Expected to Live.

All Visitors Barred and the Sick Chamber Kept in Darkness and Absolute Quiet.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Commander Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, is critically ill. The sick chamber is kept in total darkness and absolute quiet. All visitors are forbidden to see him. Telegrams, mails and all business are kept from him. Last night he was very restless. Ten days and nights of pain and unrest have made their work tell very noticeably on his delicate frame. Nothing positively encouraging can be said of his condition at present.

A NOVEL RACE.

A Stark Horse Beat the Manhattan Railroad Train.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A livery hack horse beat the Manhattan Elevated railroad system last night in a novel race from the Battery to Fifty-ninth street. The match was for $50 a side, Leonard Parmer, the artist, backing the horse, and Frank Elliott, the Canadian gentleman jockey, backing the elevated system. His blind confidence lost him the wager. The terms of the bet was that Palmer could drive, without police interference, from the Battery to the Central Park Riding academy, Seventh avenue and Fifty-ninth street, and cover the route faster than Elliott could travel by train. The start was made from the battery stairs leading to the elevated station. Bertie Anderson was starter and time keeper, and drove with Palmer, watch in hand. The route was up Broadway and Seventh avenue to the end of the course, which was covered in just twenty-nine minutes. The two cars were in a run-about wagon pulled by a horse hired from a livery stable. The best time was made on upper Seventh avenue, where there was no interference from passing vehicles. Elliott arrived ten minutes later.

MEXICO CITY, MEX., Dec 5.—Pablo Controras, a murderer, will shortly be put to death for the murder of a woman named Ildefonsa Munda. The murder was of the most atrocious kind, the woman being tortured by burning and other barbarities before death brought relief. Controras was sentenced to death on the first trial, but the case was appealed to the supreme court, which has now affirmed the verdict of death by shooting.

DIPHTHERIA REMEDY.

Anti-Toxine Is Successfully Used at Kansas City.

The Physicians Are Enthusiastic Over Its Results in Two Cases—Further Experiments.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Dec. 5.—Local physicians are enthusiastic over the results of using anti-toxine, the new diphtheria remedy, a quantity of which has been received here and put upon its merits.

Two doses of the serum were given to an infant child having an advanced case of diphtheria, and in one day's time the child was pronounced out of danger.

Another case, that of a youth who had been ill nine days with the disease, has shown like results, the patient nearly being cured after two doses had been administered. Further experiments are being made.

SUED FOR $20,000.

Valparaiso Seeking to Recover Shortage of the ex-Treasurer.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Dec. 5.—The city of Valparaiso this afternoon filed suit on relation of C. W. Bertholomew, city treasurer, for $20,000 against ex-City Treasurer George Schwarzkopf and his nineteen bondsmen, Stephen P. Corboy, Joseph Lechiire, Michael O'Keefe, Charles Regan, John Ayleworth, John Fulton, Peter Peters, John Urbahns, John Wark, W. Pinney, Herman Wulff, Thomas Ward, Joseph Gardner, Joseph Sego, Patrick Clifford, James McGillioudy, Hans Boye, Frank Parks and Edward C. O'Neill. The complaint alleges that Schwarzkopf was indebted to the city at the expiration of his two-year term of office in September, 1894, for money and property which he failed and refused to pay over to the city. It is expected the trial will commence in the January term of the Porter circuit court.

GRAB EVERYTHING.

Indiana Senators Perfect Plans to Take All the Chairmanships.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—The republican state senators met in caucus here again yesterday and consummated their plans for taking the appointment of committees from the lieutenant governor and carrying on the work of the session regardless of the will of the minority. The committee appointed at the last meeting made its report, giving to the republicans all of the chairmanships and a majority of the members on each of the committees. It was decided to pass an apportionment law both for congressmen and members of the legislature; it is conceded that the democrats will attack it in the courts. A meeting of republican representatives will be held and similar policies will be agreed upon for the house.

ENDS A STRANGE CAREER

The Death of "Dovie" Comstock in a Kansas Jail

Belongs to One of the Essential Elements Beautiful and Notorious Woman.

NEW YORK, Dec 5.—The death of Edith Armstrong, better known as "Dovie" Comstock, in a Kansas jail ends a strange career of a beautiful and notorious woman. She was the daughter of D C. Forney, founder of the Washington Chronicle, and a niece of John W. Forney.

All those who knew "Dovie" Comstock in her childhood speak of her dainty beauty. The name was given her because it fitted her. She was a laughing, wayward child.

It seemed natural that she should fall in love with Walter G. Comstock, of Providence, who was rich and handsome and young. His father was very rich. He is a near relative of the Armours and was in the wholesale meat business. They lived in Providence, on Parkis avenue, in the finest house in the aristocratic Elwood section.

They plunged at once into the social whirl. It was not long before she gathered about her a coterie of young men, many of them not in the fashionable set. These young men drank quantities of wine.

Young Comstock was at first delighted with his wife. Then his eyes opened and he got a divorce. It is said that the co-respondent was Samuel Post, the man who was killed by Ella Nelson.

Some time after the divorce Mrs. Comstock came to New York and lived in various hotels. In July, 1890, she moved to No. 344 Smith street, Brooklyn. It was there she met Theodore Larbig, who lost his life through her. He was forty-three years of age and a man who had seen life. Constant intercourse with many people, coupled with a checkered and varied experience in California, had given him a certain polish. But it was his great strength and self confident manner which attracted Mrs. Comstock. He became a constant visitor to her flat when he was in town.

In May she moved to No 278 Sackett street and took as a boarder Darwin J. Meserole, son of General Meserole. She had known Meserole several years and had been very intimate with him. On June 27, 1891, Larbig called at the house and began quarreling with Mrs. Comstock. Meserole interfered and a fight ensued in which Meserole shot and killed Larbig. The trial attracted a good deal of attention. The young man was acquitted. Wm. J. Gaynor was counsel for the defense. Ten months later "Dovie" was married to John L. Watkins and a short time afterward she went west. Being a victim of the opium habit her downfall was rapid.

BILL COOK'S GANG.

They are Driven Out of the Indian Territory.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, Dec. 5—Capt. W. J. McDonald with a detachment of state rangers, who captured a portion of the Cook gang, near Bellevue, Texas, last month, have left for northwest Texas, where another portion of the gang has been located. It is said that the entire gang, eighteen strong, and being led by Bill Cook, is now in Texas as a refuge from the United States marshal in the Indian territory.

There is one encouraging sign in some of the financial reports of the great corporations. It is that, while the gross earnings have decreased considerably in 1894, net earnings have diminished much less—that is to say, economy in management has made up somewhat for the loss of business. The Americans are naturally a wasteful people. An occasional spell of hard times will be the best lesson they could have on the subject of economy. The wastefulness extends even to the household and the individual. An American family throws away what would keep a European family of the poorer class. We in this country must hereafter adapt ourselves permanently to the system of smaller returns and greater economy. We shall be as rich in the long run for it. The vast fortunes once realized in a few years in this new country are a thing of the past. The country is settled up, and its resources must be divided among many people.

Last summer during the strikes the railroad companies sent in great haste to President Cleveland for United States troops to suppress the rioters. They were sent. Now the railroad companies present bills for transporting the troops to protect their own property. Uncle Sam ought to send in as an offset a bill for the services of his boys while they were defending the railroads.

It takes a long time to bury a great person. He must get tired of having his body carted around over his country so long before it reaches its final resting place. At any rate, living people get awfully tired of it.

IT IS A DEEP MYSTERY

That Enshrouds the Identity of Catherine Guing's Murderer.

The Police Have Obtained Several Clues, But as Yet Have Been Unable to Unravel the Crime.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec 5—The deep mystery that enshrouds the identity of Catharine Guing's murderous companion in her evening drive night before last is apparently as impenetrable as ever.

It is certain that this companion was beyond the precedence of a doubt her murderer, but thus far there is scarcely the shadow of a clue to his identity. But one man has turned up who ever saw the murderer. This is Mounted Officer Getchell, and his was but a fleeting glimpse of the face in the moonlight.

The officer was making his rounds on Lake street near Portland avenue about 8 o'clock Monday evening. A carriage passed him in which the occupants were loudly quarreling. He glanced at them and saw that he was thin of face and had a dark heavy mustache. More he could not see. He now claims that he looked at the rig as it passed sharply and positively identified it as the Gooseman rig which Miss Guing hired and which came back to the stable empty and blood soaked.

The spot where the body was found is about two miles from the spot where Getchell claims to have seen the pair, but is on a direct road thither. That is up to date the only actual clue to the identity of the stranger. Even by that it is by no means certain that the couple Getchell saw was the couple in question.

There is just one other clew from which something may yet be learned. This is the note Miss Guing received in the morning, and which, after reading she tore in small bits. Her waste basket is now in the hands of the police, who are making an effort to piece the various bits of paper found there together. So far this effort has not been entirely successful.

Apparently there are several notes One signed "R" seems to ask her to meet a friend from St. Louis. This initial at once called to mind Frederick C Reed, of St Paul, manager of the Golden Rule store. Reed, it is learned, was once engaged to Miss Guing, and gave her a diamond engagement ring, the one which was found in a small chamois bag beside her corsage. For some reason the engagement was broken more than a year ago. Reed has a thin face and a heavy dark mustache. But he proves that he was at work in the store all the evening with his clerks.

The police last night sent word to Reed to come over and enter the sweat box. He declined unless a warrant was issued for him. The police did not feel justified in issuing a warrant.

According to the testimony of all her friends, Miss Guing had entirely broken off her connections with Reed and held no communication with him for over a year. Yet she retained and cherished the ring. Thus far all search for the messenger who carried the notes have been futile. An A. D T. boy has been found who carried a number of notes from a man at the Nicoll house, but he did not carry the note Monday. The man for whom he carried notes, and whose picture was found in Miss Guing's boardoir, was Harvey Axford, a clothing manufacturer's agent, with whom and whose wife Miss Guing was friendly. He had no trouble in convincing the police that he had nothing to do with the murder.

Carl J. Warneke, another former intimate of Miss Guing's, was also subjected to sweat box process, but without result. He satisfactorily explained his former relations with the girl. He is now married.

The only other suspect is Harry Hayward, the landlord, friend and creditor of the dead woman. Hayward's admissions with reference to his financial relations with the woman constitute the serious part of the case against him. His alibi is perfect and relieves him entirely from connection with the crime. It is established that he was at the theater at the time the murder was committed. Yet he knew more of her business affairs than any known person. He lent her large sums, with security that would not be deemed gilt edge. This he says he did out of friendship and with confidence in her honesty. His last loan was $7,000 on Saturday, and it is pretty certain that she had this amount on her person at the time of her murder and that the murderer took it from her. Hayward's security for this was Miss Guing's two insurance policies—one an accident policy for $5,000 in the Travelers and the other a regular life policy for the same amount in the New York Life. These were assigned to him.

The police have enough confidence in the theory that Hayward knows more of the crime than he will tell and that possibly he instigated it to hold him under close surveillance. Mayor Eustis, who has taken charge of the case, believes this latter theory is the true one. In this connection an alleged hold-up that occurred last April is being recalled. Hayward was out driving with Miss Guing and Miss Vetter, her friend. They were stopped by two men and forced to give up what they had. It is now claimed that Miss Guing had a large sum of money in ready cash at the time and was supposed to have it on her person but that as a matter of fact she did not have it with her. It is conjectured that the men knew this fact and expected to get the money. It is even hinted that Hayward gave them the information. But aside from the insurance policies there is not a scintilla of evidence that Hayward desired the death of Miss Guing or would profit by it. He was her creditor to a large amount, was very fond of her, and stood better in her confidence than any one. The theory that he instigated the crime is hard to believe. Supposing it to be true. How could he have induced Miss Guing to go driving with him in so mysterious a way thrice with a hired thug? And how he could have induced her to take with her on the fatal drive so large a sum as $7,000. It is evident that there was a peculiar relation not entirely a pecuniary one between Miss Guing and her mysterious companion. And so the investigations of the mystery come around to the point from which they started at and leave the mystery as deep as ever.

Chas. W. Hass and Lillie M. Pyke, Geo. E. Wagner and Alice Dalman, Louis Boissait and Ada M. Parent have been licensed to wed.

Fannie Joy and Clara Morris are being tried this afternoon before Justice France for conducting a house of ill fame.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Business Drags Along in An Uninteresting Manner.

Senator Berry Introduces a Bill to Create the Territory of Indianola —Other Bills.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—There was not a quorum present when the senate met today but as there was no demand for a quorum business proceeded with a limited number. Bills were introduced by Mr. Berry, (Dem.) of Arkansas, to form the territory of Indianola out of portions of the Indian territory; by Mr. Dolph, (rep.) of Oregon, to exempt from duty foreign exhibits at the Portland, Ore., exposition; by Mr Hulton, (dem.) of Virginia, to remit the fines and penalties on the naval ships Yorktown, Baltimore, Newark and Philadelphia; by Mr. Dolph, to forfeit the unearned public lands granted to railroads; by Mr. McPherson, (dem.) of New Jersey, by request for an investigation of the merits of the plan for a unit of labor.

The attendance on the floor was again small when the house met at noon to day and the indications pointed to another dull day. Immediately after the reading of the journal Mr. English, (dem., of New Jersey), asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill. Mr. Sayers, (dem., of Texas) objected, whereupon Mr. English promptly objected to a resolution offered by Mr. Elsir (rep. of North Dakota), calling on the president to furnish the house, is not incompatible with the public interest, with all correspondence, telegraphic or otherwise, between this country and China, relating to the war between China and Japan. The resolution went to the committee on foreign affairs. Mr. English then demanded the regular order.

Senator Berry, of Arkansas, immediately after the senate convened today, introduced a bill to create a territory of Indianola, out of the present Indian territory. It provides for a complete reorganization of the Indian country.

The committee on rules this morning decided to give today after the second morning hour, and each day thereafter, to the consideration of the railroad pooling bill, the order, however, not to interfere with appropriation bills.

DASTARDLY!

Someone Trying to Poison Mrs. Fricke.

The Lady Feeds the Drug to the Chickens.

As a Result Many of Them Die and Nearly All Are Taken Sick—Chemist Gross Will Make Analysis.

A dastardly attempt is being made to poison Mrs. August Fricke, a well-to-do widow living at No. 173 Lafayette street.

The story is sensational to the extreme and shows clearly that some enemy of the lady is employing a systematic method to put her out of the way.

Some months ago Mrs. Fricke was awakened one night by a knock on the door. She got up and cautiously peeped out. She saw no one but the next morning, when she went out on the porch, was surprised to see a tempting basket of fine dried fruit. There were prunes, raisins, dried apples and other such fruits. Mrs. Fricke was greatly surprised at the kind gift, but being of a suspicious turn of mind, set the basket aside and told one of her neighbors. This lady told her not to touch the stuff, that it might be poisoned. She also advised Mrs. Fricke to try the fruit on the chickens. This she did and was horrified to find that everyone of her twenty or thirty fowls took sick. Many of them died.

Every now and then since that occurrence Mrs. Fricke has found packages of just such fruit in or about her yard. Sometimes there would be prunes and raisins; sometimes apples and peaches. On Monday some more fruit was left in the yard and yesterday Mrs. Fricke's chickens began to take sick and two fine fowls are now dead and lying in her back yard.

The lady is very naturally frightened and has no idea who is attempting the dastardly work. She has been a widow for twelve years and lives entirely alone.

The police are investigating and Chemist Gross will analyze the stomachs of the dead fowls.

ON HIS HEAD.

Dr. M. W. Tinkham Hurt in a Runaway Accident.

Badly Shaken Up But Able to Be Out Today—Accident on the Street Car Line.

Last night, about 8.30 o'clock, at Wayne Heights, Dr. M. W. Tinkham, the well known physician, met with a narrow escape from death by a runaway accident. The doctor had been calling on a patient and when about to drive away his horse took fright at an engine on the Nickel Plate road and began plunging and kicking. The animal ran to the sidewalk and striking the curb, upset the buggy and threw the doctor out on his head. He was rendered unconscious and did not recover for some moments. When he did regain his senses he was badly bruised about the head and shoulders. The horse ran on down the street and and becoming tangled in some trees, broke the shafts, but was stopped. The doctor was able to be out today.

A COLLISION.

This morning about 11 o'clock a Main street electric car ran into a farm wagon, in which were seated John Wobold and C. T. Zels, at the corner of Lafayette and Wayne streets. The wagon was smashed to splinters, but fortunately neither of the men was hurt. The men drove in front of the car.

THE WAR BEGINS.

Liquor Dealers Association Forcing Sunday Closing.

They say They Are in Dead Earnest This Time—Send Out a Committee to Notify Citizens.

The Allen County Liquors Dealers' association has begun the war on Sunday closing in earnest. For some time past they have threatened to close all kinds of business on Sunday but never made any strong effort to carry out their threats. Yesterday, at their meeting, however, they determined to act and this morning a committee from their association started out over the city to notify all business men who keep their stores open on Sunday that they must close. This includes every body except dairymen and druggists who sell prescriptions upon instructions from a physician. The new order of things is to begin on next Sunday, and upon that day it is predicted that it will be so quiet that one can hear a pin drop anywhere on Calhoun street. Smokers and others will act accordingly on Saturday night. It is said that not even hotel cigar stands will be allowed to keep open.

MAYOR OAKLEY SAYS.

Mayor Oakley was asked about the matter this noon, and said: "The saloon men are making an effort to hinder the stringent measures which this administration has taken with regard to Sunday closing and this last move of theirs is to make our orders in this direction as odious as possible. They will not succeed in this new move. I don't think the people will stand it. The saloons, however, must obey the law. This much I repeat now."

A TOUGH CITIZEN.

He Turns Out to Be a Swindler Who Operated in Omaha and Kansas City.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 5.—C. W. Jacobs, under arrest here for his participation in a mock marriage, is not Pintsal, the St Louis insurance swindler. Jacobs was unable to get a divorce from his legal wife in Kansas City and wanted to marry Mrs. Buck, of Chicago. He disappeared, leading his wife to believe that he had been killed. Mrs. Buck refused to live with him until he had secured a divorce, so he got a copy of the Oklahoma territory court papers, and forged a judgment of divorce. Fearing discovery if he had a minister marry him, he conceived the plan of a mock ceremony. The police have released Jacobs. Mrs. Buck and Harvey, the bogus preacher.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7—Dr. Chas. W. Jacobs, who was arrested in Milwaukee while attempting to marry Mrs. Helen Buck, of Chicago, by an alleged mock ceremony, has, according to the police of this city, a glittering record. Jacobs secured his diploma from a Cincinnati medical college and practiced medicine in Omaha and Kansas City. While in the latter city several years ago he married the daughter of Millionaire David Skelton, and, it is claimed, made an unsuccessful attempt last summer to secure a divorce there. Jacobs' favorite plan for obtaining money was, it is said, the offering of $10 worth of work for a deposit of $5, but the transaction invariably ended, the police say, when he received the deposit. He was also known as a dealer in diamonds, which business was carried on without the aid of diamonds. Jacobs is also said to have received large contributions from western farmers through diverse and questionable schemes. The theory that he is the missing Pintsel, confederate of the insurance swindler, H. H. Holmes, is given no credence here.

The estimates of appropriation submitted to congress include $235,000 for the Michigan City harbor, for the support of the Indian school at Wabash, $10,000, for the Marion Soldiers' Home, $505,271; and for the Indian school at Rensselaer, Ind., $8,330.

In the senate yesterday Senator Turpie, of Indiana, offered a resolution reciting that the time had now come for the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people. Mr. Turpie announced that on Friday next he would submit some remarks on the resolution, and in the meantime the resolution went over.

State Geologist Blatchley, it is understood, will ask the legislature for an increased appropriation for his department. He believes that a geodetic survey should be made of every county in the state. All facts concerning Indiana's natural resources should be collected as carefully and spread as widely as possible, he thinks.

Japan wants 400,000,000 yen and the cession of the territory now occupied by her troops as the price of peace. This demand seems a little heavy, a yen being equivalent to our dollar. Germany exacted but $250,000,000 from France, although depriving her of Alsace and Lorraine. England will object to Japan's demands, no doubt, and interesting complications will ensue if Japan insists upon a cession of territory.

The scramble for the office of oil inspector of Indiana, and Geologist Blatchley's delay in selecting the man have led to the discovery that the office is one the richest in the state.

The Liquor Dealers association met yesterday and took counsel in regard to influencing Mayor Oakley to enforce all the Sunday laws. The object of this is to try to make the enforcement of the law so obnoxious that the closing of the saloons on Sunday will be abandoned. The enforcement of the law in regard to Sunday saloon closing has met with such popular approval by our people that we do not believe they will ever be allowed to open again. The liquor dealers spent thousands of dollars to defeat the Sunday law in Pittsburg and other cities on this same plan but failed and were weaker at the end of the fight than when they commenced. What a blessing it would be if all secular and commercial business was stopped on the Sabbath day.

It now appears that the Armenians were treated even worse than was at first reported. The Turks not only murdered the old men, women and children by the hundreds, but took possession of the village schools and ravished the girls found there. An eye witness says that Ibo Bey, a notorious Kurd brigand of the village of Djibran, and a colonel in the regular army, went with a detachment of Turkish troops to the Armenian villages of Bahlou, Hasergent and Kouak and at each place they committed every crime it was possible to commit. After driving out the men they collected the female children of Bahlou together, about two hundred in all, and after ravishing them they killed them all with guns and swords. After this massacre the Turkish soldiers regaled themselves with wine and whatever else they could find in the village. If it is true that Secretary Gresham refused to do anything when the Armenians of this country appealed to him, and passed it by as a small matter, he should receive the severest condemnation and be asked to step down and out from the high position he holds. The American government should come to the aid of suffering humanity wherever it is found.

Real and Ideal Tibet.

It will be well to take Professor Heinrich Hensoldt Ph. D.'s fairy tales about Tibet with a very large chunk of reservation till we find how far the learned professor is indulging his well known propensity to hoodwink people and then laugh at them. For the past year papers of thrilling interest have been appearing in The Arena from his hand about the magicians of the orient. These perform marvels compared to which the New Testament miracles seem everyday affairs, according to the Hensoldt testimony. They can make even rocks and trees disappear at will, and they can read your thoughts as soon as they are formed in your mind. To be sure, one cannot help wondering, if such glorious beings exist in Tibet and India, why the people of those countries remain among the poorest and most degraded on the earth, but perhaps one is unreasonable to expect civilized people and mahatmas both to live in one country at the same time.

In his travels in Tibet, Dr. Hensoldt alleges himself to have visited the Dalai Lama, who is the supposed reincarnation of Buddha. He is a child of 13 years, who concentrates in himself all the wisdom of the ages, according to Hensoldt. His countenance is glorious to look upon, albeit singularly melancholy, because Dal is always brooding over the sins of the world, as well he might be. Hensoldt further represents the lamas or priests at the monasteries of Tibet as being learned, benevolent gentlemen who work for their living, and work hard.

A year or two ago an Englishman, after unutterable hardship, penetrated into Tibet. He did not look at things through the cultivated esoteric imagination, but just through plain, blunt British eyes. He finds the roving nomads of Tibet to be the most dishonest, treacherous and shiftless of human beings. They will rob you as quick as look at you and have not the most distant conception that a promise is anything to be kept.

The priests or lamas, whom Hensoldt found to be so industrious and frugal, the British traveler finds to be rich and arrogant. All the wealth there is in the country they have got hold of, and they practice on the ignorance and superstition of the wretched inhabitants to forward their own very material interests constantly. Finally the Dalai Lama is 16 years old, the Englishman says, and he does not consider him anything extraordinary at all.

The findings of President Cleveland's committee to investigate the Pullman strike are substantially that either the government must interfere to protect the employes of railway corporations or else it must own the railroads itself. In case of the Pullman strike the committee, of whom Carroll D. Wright, labor commissioner, is a prominent member, finds that the rent charged Pullman employes was 20 to 25 per cent more than the same accommodations could be had for in Chicago. A high rent was charged even for occupying the church the Pullman company built, so high a rent that the church was seldom used. The committee finds, further, that the company did not keep the works running to lend time for the sake of the workmen, but only for its own sake. Pullman was found to be to blame for refusing to arbitrate the differences between himself and his men. The committee discovered there was something to arbitrate. Finally the Railway Managers' association is declared to be illegal.

The law of New York requires that after the election each candidate shall file with the secretary of state a full and true statement of the money he paid out for campaign expenses. John W. PYKE-HAAS.

A Quiet Wedding at Trinity Episcopal Church.

Other Society Events of Importance and Personal Paragraphs of Interest—Short Notes.

Very pretty and impressive in its quiet simplicity was the wedding of Miss Lida M. Pyke and Mr. Charles S. Haas, of Wabash, which occurred this morning, at 11:30 o'clock at the Trinity Episcopal church. The near relatives and just a few intimate friends were the guests assembled to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. W. Seabrease, rector of the church. Mrs. T. E. Ellison presided at the organ and during the ceremony played, softly, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." The bride was attired in a cloth traveling gown of green and brown mixture. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Haas left for Cincinnati and from there will go to New Orleans and Florida to spend several weeks before returning to Wabash, where they will reside. Miss Pyke was one of Fort Wayne's most interesting society young ladies and a talented musician. She was an active member of the Morning Musical and will be much missed in both musical and social circles.

Mr. Haas is one of the most successful newspaper men of the state, combining with his rare business qualifications abilities as a writer that have made him a brilliant journalist and given him a position as an editor whose name and fame are not confined to state boundaries. At one time the city editor of The Sentinel, he left this city for his home at Wabash, where he took charge, as editor and proprietor, of the Plaindealer, a daily and weekly newspaper that he has brought up to a high standard of excellence and made it a paying and prosperous business investment. As a business man he is highly esteemed. Socially he has endeared himself to a large circle of friends and become a favorite with everyone with whom he is thrown in contact. The newspaper guild regard "Charley" Haas as "one of the cleverest of fellows," a young man who is an honor to the journalistic profession and one who has a brilliant future.

BRUTES AT WORK.

Students Haze Claude G. Campbell, a Cripple.

The Lad's Head Shaved and Painted Red—Stripped of His Clothing and Exposed to the Weather.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Disloyalty to the University of California, which he has until recently been an under graduate, was the reason given for hazing of Claude G. Campbell, son of a Methodist minister at Los Angeles, by his fellow students. Campbell's offense consisted in wearing the Stanford colors and jeering at the University of California because of its defeat by Stanford in the foot ball match on Thanksgiving day. He is also accused of having given inside information of the condition and tactics of his university team to the opposing players. Campbell was caught after midnight on his way to his quarters, seized and blindfolded. With a dull razor the students shaved one side of his head and cut off his eyebrows and eyelashes. His head was daubed with red ink, Stanford's colors having been worked into his surviving locks with mucilage. On one cheek was a red "S"—for Stanford. On the other "T"—for traitor. He was stripped and his body covered with the same letters. Campbell is a slender cripple and explains that he was a former Stanford student, intending to return to that university in January. The faculty will consider the case on its merits.

RIGHT ROYAL TRIO.

HENRY OF NAVARRE, HIS SIRE AND DAM.

The Champion of 1894 Course by His Beauty and Speed Honestly—Blood Lines in the Pedigree of the Great Colt.

THE DISTINCTION received by the 3-year-old colt Henry of Navarre on the running turf during the season of 1894 brought credit and profit to others than his owner, Byron McClelland of Lexington. Lucien O. Appleby, who bred the colt at his Silver Brook stud, Little Silver, N. J., felt quite as much pride in the many brilliant victories scored by the peerless chestnut as did the young Kentuckian who today finds himself in possession of the undisputed champion of the year.

When Mr. Appleby built a country place on the old Shrewsbury road and began the breeding of thoroughbreds on a limited scale, he did not dare hope that he would produce a world beater before his stud was five years in existence. Such, however, was the good fortune which attended the mating of his best stallion, Knight of Ellerslie, son of Eolus and Lizzie Hazlewood, and Moss Rose, daughter of Imported The Ill-Used and Scarlet, by Kentucky, Knight of Ellerslie was foaled in 1881, and was bred at the Ellerslie stud of Col. Hancock in Virginia. As a 3-year-old he won the Army and Navy, Vernal, and Preakness stakes, and was second to Panique in the Belmont stakes. Going amiss when his career was brightest, Knight of Ellerslie was placed in the stud in Kentucky. He received but little patronage in the blue grass region, however, and Mr. Appleby secured him for Silver Brook and bred him to a few of the brood mares of splendid blood lines which formed the nucleus of his stud. The blood of some of the greatest performers of the turf, among them Eole, Eon, St. Saviour, War Cry and Melbourne, Jr., flowed in the veins of Knight of Ellerslie, and this mingling with the blood of Scarlet, of Carnation, of Kentucky, through the dam, Moss Rose, it was not surprising that the product of the union should give early promise of being a race horse. From the very first the colt thus unnamed and only distinguished from his fellows by his size and conformation, was regarded as the most promising of the collection.

It was the first crop of foals at Silver Brook, and the members of the household each had a favorite. All were fond of the son of Knight of Ellerslie and Moss Rose, and there was great crying and drying of eyes the morning the colts and fillies were led away to the paddocks at Monmouth park, where, in sight of the home of their birth, they were put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder. The size and beauty of the chestnut colt now known as Henry of Navarre brought many bidders into the ring, among them Byron McClelland of Kentucky. McClelland said a few weeks ago that something told him to buy the colt, and while he secured him for $3,000, he was prepared to go on and pay more than twice this sum had the competition been brisk enough to carry him along. David C. Johnson wanted the colt, too, but Mr. Johnson is one of those men peculiar to the race track who either has money to burn or hasn't a penny. It happened that when the colt was sold he was in the Mr. Jingle stage of his existence, and he looked on and was no doubt glad that his friend McClelland had bagged the prize. McClelland called the colt Henry of Navarre at the request of a school teacher in Lexington. The oriflamme of the Knight has always been in the most prominent places ever since the regal chestnut sported silk, and turfmen will not cease sounding his praises for years to come, says the New York Sun.

In the same stable is a sister of Henry of Navarre, purchased a few months ago for $3,000, and when the brother to both is led into the sale ring next season the man who secures him must have more money and a stouter heart than McClellan if he secures him.

When Henry of Navarre's portrait appeared last spring the beauty of the colt was greatly admired. He was by far the handsomest horse in training at that time. A number of communications have been received asking what manner of stock Henry of Navarre sprang from. Moss Rose is shown just as she was found in the paddocks enjoying the last days of the sunny autumn. She had been tumbling and tossing about in the grass and leaves, and her coat is not in showy condition. She is in good health, and, as she is a young mare, being foaled in 1885, she will probably present Silver Brook stud with other fleet race horses.

Knight of Ellerslie is a commanding figure, and a glance at his splendid proportions shows whence Henry of Navarre inherited many of his strongest qualities. Years in the stud have thickened and rounded a sturdy frame, and there are few handsomer stallions in the stud than this youngest of the great sires of the country. Mr. Appleby should send him to the National Horse Show association's exhibition this month, for he would undoubtedly be one of the features of the great collection housed annually for a week in Madison Square garden.

For many years breeders of thoroughbreds and trotters were of the opinion that the climate of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania was too rigorous to secure the best results in the breeding line, but that has long since been exploded, and the product of these states can hold their own

with the thoroughbreds or trotters from Kentucky, California or Tennessee.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

Why the Late Professional League Failed of Success.

The failure of professional football was a great disappointment to the followers of the dribbling code, a large number of whom thought that the game would jump immediately into popularity. But it was hardly to be expected, in the face of counter attractions, that the public would flock to see games in sufficient numbers to place the project upon a paying basis. Had the season been delayed until after Thanksgiving day, when the interest in the Rugby game had subsided, there might have been a better prospect of success. In England, where the crowd at all "cup" games always number two figures in thousands, the conditions are different, the weather being warmer and the counter attraction of Rugby football being overcome. Just now the excitement at all matches in England is at fever heat, and, like baseball in this country, the local pride is not interfered with by the fact that most of the players have no more right to play for the town they represent than they would have to take part in an international game and represent America. It does not matter whether a team in Lancashire, composed of two thirds Scotchmen, plays a team in Warwickshire, composed of all Scotchmen. The interest is just as great and the patriotism as keen as though all the men were born at the place they represent.

OHIO'S AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Victims of the Most Fiendish Crime Recorded for Years.

The most appalling crime that has for years been recorded in Ohio was enacted near Hicksonville the other day. Ashley and Elsie Good, aged 14 and 15 respectively, left their home Sunday afternoon for a hunt in the woods not far distant. That night they did not return home. The next morning a search party was sent out and during the day found their mangled bodies under a brush heap, near the farm house of a family by the name of Hart. They had been murdered in cold blood, and then the perpetrators sought to wipe out evidence of the awful deed by setting the brush upon a fire. But it did not burn and their bodies were found as told. It seems that assault on the little girl prompted the crime. The children were captured and bound. At this stage of the tragedy the boy was apparently dealt a cruel blow on the cheek that knocked out four of his teeth. It was done with the toy gun he took with him when he and his little sister started out to play. From the appearance of the wound when the body was found he must have lived an hour or so after he received it. The place they were first taken to is not known. There is evidence that the children were together when the girl was assaulted. It then became evident to the fiend that he must do away with one or both. To make the boy promise not to tell he began torturing the lad, horribly mutilating him and the monster ripped him open on one side of the abdomen and then on the other. It only remained to cut his throat, and it was done. The body was then carried out to the brush pile, where it was placed to be burned up. The little girl was brought to the brush heap. This could be seen by her tracks in the mud. The footprints showed she was dragged along unwillingly, as her marks were the deepest. The places where she laid on the ground in two or three different positions could be plainly seen. She was held down and her throat cut after she had been mutilated and tortured worse even then her brother. Such are some of the stories that come through some of the searching party. That some of the near neighbors "never saw the smoke" of the burning brush heap when it was in plain sight is regarded as suspicious and resulted in arrests. Charles Hart, who narrowly escaped lynching, evidently saw it, but knew enough about what was going on to keep away.

"Jack the Strangler" is again at work in Denver. A Japanese girl of ill repute was his third victim.

THE MULES MISSING.

Yesterday Agent R. B. Rossington, of the Pittsburg, received a way bill and inquiries from the agent at Crestline, Ohio, concerning two mules, which were shipped from that city to Fort Wayne on September 6, 1859. The way bill is a rare relic of pioneer days. Mr. Rossington sent it to General Freight Agent Cole, at Pittsburg. The mules are still missing.

Engineer Irish, late of Conneaut, Ohio, has moved his family to this city and now lives at 285 West Jefferson street. Mr. Irish has taken a freight run on the west end of the Nickel Plate.

Valparaiso Messenger: "The Pittsburg company refuses to carry on its trains any person under the influence of liquor. At Inwood, recently, a local passenger was turned away because of being intoxicated."

The Pittsburg is sending a great number of empty box cars east, to be returned loaded with coke. A train of sixty six cars, most of which were empty Calumet and Blue Island railroad cars, passed through here this morning.

The Lake Erie and Western people announce that should they get control of the Indianapolis, Decatur and Western they will place first mortgage bonds on it amounting to $10,000 per mile and second mortgage bonds amounting to $5,000 per mile.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company, which some weeks ago took off a number of their short trains where the electric trolley lines cut into their business, are now restoring such trains, the regular travelers having abandoned the street cars on account of the discomforts of cold weather.

J. C. Wagner, ex-roadmaster of the Lake Erie and Western road, was pretty badly bruised and skinned in a runaway last evening. He was engaged in training a colt to drive, to a sulky, when the animal ran away and smashed the vehicle into smithereens and pitched Mr. Wagner into the ditch.

Fred Weibel is erecting for C. S. Knight, of Spy Run avenue, a twelve foot Perkins steel wind mill and a 280 barrel tank, elevated twenty-five feet, for furnishing water for irrigating, buggy washing, house use, etc. It is the largest wind mill job in the county. H. J. Snyder is superintending the work.

The Wabash shopmen have contributed a most beautiful piece to the floral offerings at the funeral of the late Nathan Sibray, which is to take place tomorrow. The piece represents a cross and anchor, leaning up against the base of which is an open Bible. The piece is three feet high, and is most beautifully designed and constructed.

A number of engineers and conductors on Indiana roads will draw for November services $150 to $165, and in one or two cases will probably receive $185 for the month's services. The trainmen on American roads do not fully appreciate the amount of their pay. The Sicilian road, which covers nearly all the lines on that island, paid average yearly wages in 1894 of $155 to its employes, numbering 3,844, a sum the average train man on American roads, when business is good, receives for five or six weeks' work.

Wabash voted a $40,000 subsidy to the Big Four railroad company last Monday, conditioned that the shops of the Michigan division, recently destroyed by fire, should be rebuilt in that city. The vote stood 2,166 for and 1,152 against the subsidy. The company guarantees to expend $150,000 in the reconstruction.

East bound shipments last week amounted to 34,182 tons, against 47,856 for the preceding week and 15,152 for the corresponding week of last year. The roads carried tonnage as follows: Michigan Central 3,321, Wabash 2,580, Lake Shore, 4,289, Fort Wayne, 4,890, Panhandle, 5,791, Baltimore & Ohio, 2,615, Grand Trunk, 3,562, Nickel Plate, 3,071, Erie 3,405, Big Four, 1,116.

Logansport Pharos: "Freight conductors and brakemen on the Chicago division of the Panhandle are circulating a petition for a reduction of the force. It is claimed that for the month of November the average earnings of through freight conductors was $65, while brakemen earned less than $45. The petition is meeting with opposition from lately promoted conductors and new brakemen, who would be the losers if it should be granted."

The Morning Republican, of Findlay, Ohio, has the following to say of the new Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western road. "The Tangent line officials expect to have the road ready for through business by December 15. By the completion of this road there is brought into existence another direct line to St. Louis and the southwest via the Wabash system, also to Chicago and the northwest via the Chicago and Erie. The distance from here to Fort Wayne is about eighty miles, and when the new Tangent line division is completed, the distance by means of this road will be covered in about two hours, and will shorten the time to Chicago by about the same number of hours."

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Meeting of Eclectic Physicians to Be Held at Plymouth, Ind.

The Liberal Medical Association of Northern Indiana will hold its meeting at Plymouth tomorrow and the following program has been arranged for the occasion:

Pneumonia ... N. A. Herring, M. D., Bremen
Diseases of the Eye Common to the General Practitioner ... Prof. F. M. Hector, M. D., Rochester
Reflex Pain, How shall we recognize it? ... F. G. Ketchum, M. D., Valparaiso

Ophthalmia ... C. M. Wright, M. D., Hanover

The officers of the association are as follows: J. D. McCann, president, White county, Ind.; William Jackson, secretary, Plymouth, Ind.

The secretary in speaking of the association and its meeting, said to The Sentinel reporter: "The Liberal Medical Association of Northern Indiana, organized with members from eleven counties. The association is eclectic in principle and its sole object is the advancement of medical and surgical science irrespective of creed. We wish every reputable eclectic physician in the northern part of the state to be a member and we extend a cordial invitation to every reputable and legal physician to unite with us. Our place of meeting will be migratory.'

A DEFAULTER.

Ridenburg Short Over $30,000 in His Accounts.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—The Herald today charges that S. W. Ridenburg the missing ex deputy county clerk, is a defaulter to the extent of $30,000, and that many believe the shortage will amount to twice that figure. The work of checking over his accounts will not be completed for several days and until this is completed the exact amount of the defalcation, if one really exists, will not be definitely known.

TEN DAYS' ARMISTICE.

China and Japan Suspend Hostilities for a Short Time.

Shanghai, Dec. 5.—It is rumored here that a ten days' armistice has been arranged between China and Japan and it is said that the terms of peace which are still under negotiation are to include an indemnity and the formation of a buffer state, consisting of the country now held by the Japanese. China now fears the winter more than Japan, as the supplies of rice have been kept back too long.

Big Lawsuit.

Biddeford, Maine, Dec 5. Miss Ella Haines, of Biddeford has brought suit against the estate of the late Luther Bryant, the Biddeford millionaire, for $250,000. She sues to recover a tin box containing $250,000 in government bonds and stocks which she alleges Mr. Bryant gave her before he died, but which she was compelled to give up by the executors after the millionaire died. The case will be tried in the January term of the supreme court at Saco.

The Modern Mother

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

What Liberty Cap Signifies.

The goddess of Liberty originally was represented as holding in her hand a cap. In France the Jacobins wore a red cap. In England the blue cap with a white border is the symbol of liberty; and Britannia is sometimes represented as holding a cap on the end of a spear. This custom originated with the Romans. When a Roman slave was freed he was given a small red cloth cap, which he wore as a sign of his freedom. He was then called libertinus, which means a freedman, and his name was registered on the city records. When Saturnius took possession of the capitol he hoisted a cap on top of a spear and proclaimed that all slaves who joined his forces and marched under his standard should be free. Other conquerors adopted the same sign, and when Cæsar was assassinated the conspirators marched in procession with a cap elevated on a spear, as a token of their liberty.

The Coming State.

When the present territory of Utah enters the union of states, it will do so with a population of about 300,000 souls and a climate unsurpassed in the wide world. It will be richer in agricultural resources than any other state. It has within its borders nearly all of the known minerals and metals—gold, silver, copper, iron, tin, etc, etc—in abundant quantities. It has, best of all, a health giving climate, always temperate in summer and in winter. It has hot sulphur springs and is in fact, one large sanitarium. Utah is the ideal place to build a home in which to spend the balance of your days, surrounded by farm and orchard which guarantee all the necessities and most of the comforts of life. There are millions of homes now awaiting settlement. Send to J. H. Bennett, Salt Lake City, for a copy of "Utah's Resources." It will pay you to post yourself on the merits of the "coming state" which has been aptly termed "The Promised Land." 6 eod d & w

Better Every Year.

Time was when the "glorious climate of California" did not attract tourists. But year after year the tide of travel sets in stronger and stronger every fall and winter toward this favored region. There is no climate like it on this continent for a winter resort, and the usual fine service on the Union Pacific system has this season been brought to a degree of perfection which leaves nothing to be desired.

Officer Hardendorf Arrests a Gang of Small Boys.

Mystery of the Bank Block and Pixley-Long Building Robberies Cleared Up—They Were Newsboys.

Officer Dora Hardendorf did a clever piece of detective work this week and has created consternation among a crowd of urchins which will last them for many a day.

For some months past people in the Bank block and Pixley-Long building have been missing stamps and small change and the police were suspicious of some newsboys. Officer Hardendorf has been shadowing the lads and this morning began making arrests by the wholesale.

Monday morning when Attorney Kleckamp went to his office in the Bank block he was surprised to see his safe standing open and all the drawers in his desk looking as though they had been rifled. He did not miss anything but some stamps He at once notified the police.

This morning, Officer Hardendorf working on a clue obtained at the fruit store of Phillip Dondero, arrested Willie Webber, son of the West Main street saloonkeeper, and Walter Leiger, both newsboys. He also got hold of Arthur Nickerson, and took him to the station. Nickerson was badly scared and cried and took on at a great rate. He finally gave the whole thing away and his statement was quite startling showing that the boys form a regular gang of young thieves and crooks. Those implicated beside the three boys arrested this morning are: John Van Allen, Ed Bailey, of Broadway, and Harry Stephens, of Chicago street

Nickleson told the officers that the boys had a bunch of fifty or seventy-five keys which would fit almost every door in the two buildings mentioned Officer Hardendorf then took the boy Nickleson to a barn in the rear of the Daily News office and found a bunch of five or six keys, which were found to open every door in the Bank block. The officers let the Nickleson and Van Allen boys go as they appeared not to be mixed up in the matter so badly as the other boys. They will be held as witnesses, however.

The boys, it appears, have stolen mostly postage stamps Sunday they made a wholesale robbery of the Bank building and, among other valuables, got $1 worth of stamps from J. E. Graham. The boys all say they traded their stamps to Dondero for fruit and candy The Daily News office has also been missing stamps.

MANY SUITS

Grow Out of a Struggle for Possession of a Barber Shop.

Sensational Scenes Enacted at the Arcade Building Over Legal Suits.

Some time ago Oscar Wobrock owned the Arcade barber shop and when he retired from the business, assigned a five year lease by permission of the owner of the building, Henry M. Williams, to Uriah Kopenhaven, who has since conducted the shop. Kopenhaven has been behind in his rent and owed some $60.

On the 15th of November he was served with a ten days' notice to vacate the premises and failing to comply on November 28, a suit for possession of premises was brought against him This suit was yesterday decided by Justice Tancey in favor of the plaintiff and the constable was given an order to put the proprietor of the Arcade in possession of the room.

It seems that a few days ago Kopenhaven sold his furniture and effects used in the barber business, to two young men in his employ, Edward Swaidner and Henry Hohmann, who were conducting the business when the constable came in. The writ for possession was read to them and the constable proceeded to execute the order of the court. He had carried about half the stuff out and as he took a chair out to the sidewalk the door was locked. He demanded admittance, but was refused. C. H. Stewart and James Robinson, attorneys for the owner of the Arcade, advised Roebke to force an entrance, on the ground that he was in possession of the place as soon as he had read the writ. This Roebke did with an axe. The customers in the chairs, however, did not budge and the barbers kept at their work.

While this was going on Charles Lindsay, a constable from Justice France's court, put in an appearance with a warrant for the arrest of Constable Roebke, the charge being malicious trespass. Roebke went away a prisoner and the barbers resumed business. Things remained peaceful until 8 o'clock, and a new door was put up. At this hour Constable Roebke again put in an appearance and, with a plank for a battering ram, broke in the door. The goods were deposited in the alley and the constables again put in possession.

Still another justice court was called into action and Justice Bohen issued warrants for Edward Swaidner and Henry Hohman, the present owners of the furniture, and Alfred Borey, a colored man, who, it is alleged, kicked Constable Roebke. Henry Homan was the only one arrested last night, and Fred Schmuckle went on his bond for $100 for his appearance this morning

The barbers say that they purchased the furniture from Kopenhaven with the understanding that they were to have a five years lease and did not intend to accept any other terms

Mr. Williams in speaking of the affair to THE SENTINEL reporter said: "Never, under any condition nor at any time, was the room offered for a five year term. On the contrary always, and at all times, the very reverse was plainly stated. they could have the room for a short time, not for a long one, and this offer still remains open. Possession of furniture in a room does not carry with it possession of a room. The original lease is out, cancelled by the lessee and also by decree of the court."

The case against Swaidner and Homann came up this morning in Justice Bohen's court and was adjourned until 10 o'clock Friday morning

The malicious trespass case against Roebke and Sonnenberger was called in Justice France's court at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In the superior court this morning B F Harper and Robert Driebelbiss as attorneys for Henry Homann and Edward Swaidner, began suit in the superior court against Frederick W. Roebke and Henry Hesemeier to recover damages in the sum of $1,500, alleging that their business and reputations had been injured to that amount.
